

ABSTRACT

A radio transmitter such as a mobile telephone is operating in a TDMA system. The number of slots which can be allocated for transmissions from said device is 5 adjusted based on the temperature of the casing of the device, the remaining battery life thereof or the mode of operation thereof.